

Galleyrand Place, near

Jacksonville, Fla.,

Aug. 13, 1883.

Mr. Watson:

Dear Sir - Thanks for your favor of the 6th -

I greatly fear that I have no specimens of my Indian river Utricularia purpurea - will make a search, if I find any of it, will send all I have - I know I found it in a pond with U. vulgaris they looking much alike except in color of flowers - But I was too much engrossed with Ludwigia Curtisii & Limnanthemum trachyspermum to pay much attention to commoner things.

I waded for two hours & the water & sunshine were so hot that my legs were scalded so that the cuticle came off afterwards -

Yours truly

A. H. Curtis -

Galleyrand Place, near

Jacksonville, Fla.,

Later - 1883.

P. D., Eureka - See specim. of large U. purpurea in accompanying Pkg -

I have just made sets of two Lecheas & enclose specimens - The early, dark-colored kind, which I have lettered A, is what Mr. Leggett called (I think)
L. cinerascens, Raf. Of B I never sent him a specim.
though it is much commoner.
Both grow together in bare pine woods, A flowering a month earlier than B - Please compare them with your specimens. & write me -

A. H. C.